McMaster University, Department of Political Science, POLSCI 3GG3

POLITICAL SCIENCE 3GG3: FEDERALISM
Fall 2018

Instructor: Peter Graefe
Email: graefep@mcmaster.ca
Lecture: Mo, W, Th, 13:30-14:20

Office: KTH-512
Office Hours: Monday, 11:30-13:00

Contents

Course Description ...................................................................................................................... 2
Course Objectives ...................................................................................................................... 2
Required Materials and Texts .................................................................................................... 3
Class Format .............................................................................................................................. 3
Course Evaluation – Overview ................................................................................................. 3
Course Evaluation – Details ....................................................................................................... 3
  Provincial Context Paper, (15%), due October 3 ................................................................. 3
  Provincial Strategy Paper, (15%), due November 1 ............................................................ 3
  Simulation Reflection Paper, (15%), due November 22 .................................................... 3
  Participation, (15%) ................................................................................................................ 3
  Final Exam, (40%), December 2018 .................................................................................... 4
Weekly Course Schedule and Required Readings ................................................................. 4
  Week 1 (September 5, 6) ....................................................................................................... 4
  Week 2 (September 10, 12, 13) ........................................................................................... 4
  Week 3 (September 17, 19, 20) ........................................................................................... 5
  Week 4 (September 24, 26, 27) ........................................................................................... 5
  Week 5 (October 1, 3, 4) ..................................................................................................... 6
  Week 6 (October 8, 10, 11) .................................................................................................. 6
  Week 7 (October 15, 17, 18) ............................................................................................... 6
  Week 8 (October 22, 24, 25) ............................................................................................... 7
  Week 9 (October 29, 31, November 1) ............................................................................... 7
  Week 10 (November 5, 7, 8) .............................................................................................. 8
  Week 11 (November 12, 14, 15) ......................................................................................... 8
  Week 12 (November 19, 21, 22) ......................................................................................... 9
  Week 13 (November 26, 28, 29) ......................................................................................... 9
  Week 14 (December 3, 5) .................................................................................................... 10
Course Description
From the calendar: An analysis of the constitutional framework, evolution, and structure of the federal system in Canada and/or other Western countries.

The principles of federalism at least rhetorically inform the political systems under which two in five humans live. Formal federations such as Canada, are institutionally structured in part to protect or give expression to such principles. This course pays particular attention to how these principles have been translated into Canadian political institutions, and the implications for political practices such as redistribution, intergovernmental relations, public policy making, and the accommodation of national diversity.

Course Objectives
By the end of the course students should be able to:

- Explain in what ways Canada is a federation, and to relate these to common conceptual distinctions in federal studies;
- Describe the evolution of the federal features of Canadian politics;
- Explain how public policy-making is shaped by federalism;
- Analyze the competing pressures in an intergovernmental negotiation, and apply class learning to create appropriate bargaining strategies;
Evaluate the capacity of federalism in Canada to respond to claims arising from a multinational polity.

Required Materials and Texts
Class materials are mostly available on-line through the library website or directly from a hyperlink in this outline. The remainder will be available on the course’s Avenue page.

Class Format
Monday and Thursday classes will be lecture based. Most Wednesday classes will be devoted to providing time for groups to meet in order to plan and assemble their group work.

Course Evaluation – Overview
1. Provincial Context Paper – 15%, due October 3
2. Provincial Strategy Paper – 15%, due November 1
3. Simulation Reflection Paper – 15%, due November 22
4. Participation – 15%
5. Final Exam – 40%, scheduled by the Registrar

Course Evaluation – Details
Provincial Context Paper, (15%), due October 3
Please see the detailed description on the Avenue Course page. This assignment will be completed as part of your provincial group and submitted collectively. This paper will provide a 10-15 page (double spaced) assessment of the province’s historical and contemporary positioning in intergovernmental relations.

Provincial Strategy Paper, (15%), due November 1
Please see the detailed description on the Avenue Course page. This 12-15 page assignment (double-spaced) will be completed with your provincial group and submitted collectively. It will include four parts: an opening speech, two policy field strategy analyses, and an overall provincial strategy analysis.

Simulation Reflection Paper, (15%), due November 22
Please see the detailed description on the Avenue Course page. This 6-8 page paper (double-spaced) involves reflecting on lessons learned from the simulation, and the discussion of these lessons in dialogue with course content.

Participation, (15%)
Please see the detailed description on the Avenue Course page. This grade will be a composite of self-assessment and instructor assessment of participation during the simulation, including at the preparatory group meetings.
Final Exam, (40%), December 2018
The final exam will be scheduled by the registrar in the final exam period. Questions will be closely tied to the weekly learning outcomes.

Weekly Course Schedule and Required Readings

Week 1 (September 5, 6)
   September 5: Introduction
   September 6 – What is federalism?
   Readings:

   Learning Outcomes:
   Describe the features that make a political community a federation. Distinguish federations from other forms such as unitary states or confederations.

Week 2 (September 10, 12, 13)
   September 10, 12: Normative and Theoretical Issues
   Readings:

   Learning outcomes:
   Explain how federal institutions are argued to achieve particular ends. Distinguish between models of territorial and cultural/multinational federalism; of coming together and holding together federalism; of constitutional and treaty federalism.
September 13: First meeting of groups, discussion of simulation

Week 3 (September 17, 19, 20)

September 17, 20: Historical Development of Canadian Federalism 1
Readings:

Peter Russell, Constitutional Odyssey 2nd Ed. (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1993), ch. 4.

Learning outcomes:

Explain why federal features were included in the 1867 Constitution.
Describe why the 1867 Constitution was considered “quasi-federal”.
Evaluate whether the retreat of Macdonald’s centralist design was solely the work of the JCPC.

September 19: Groups meet to divide tasks and plan

Week 4 (September 24, 26, 27)

September 24, 27: Historical Development of Canadian Federalism 2
Readings:

Learning outcomes:

Explain why the federal spending power has been seen as illegitimate by successive Quebec governments since at least the 1950s.
Explain why Canadian federalism moved from a more cooperative to a more competitive basis from the 1950s to the 1980s.
Assess whether Canadian federalism has become more centralized or less centralized over time.
September 26: Groups meet to assemble the first draft of their context paper

Week 5 (October 1, 3, 4)
October 1, 4: Executive Federalism and Intergovernmental Relations
Readings:

Learning Outcomes:
Compare the character of intergovernmental relations across policy fields, and explain the causes of differences between fields.
Evaluate the democratic character of executive federalism.
Evaluate proposals for reform of Canadian intergovernmental relations.

Notes: Context paper due October 3

Week 6 (October 8, 10, 11)
Reading Week: No Class

Week 7 (October 15, 17, 18)
October 15, 18: Fiscal Federalism
Readings:

Learning outcomes:
Describe and distinguish horizontal and vertical fiscal imbalances.
Explain how the equalization programme and federal-provincial transfers relate to horizontal and vertical fiscal imbalances.
Assess whether provincial claims for changes in fiscal federalism reflect normative principles or short-term self-interest.

October 17: Groups meet to share information about their policy area and their government’s general position

Week 8 (October 22, 24, 25)
October 22, 25: Federalism and the Social Union
Readings:

Learning Outcomes:
Explain how the spending power is related to social citizenship in Canada.
Evaluate whether hierarchy is necessary in order to develop accountability in intergovernmental policy-making.
Describe the new federal tools for shaping the social union and assess their effectiveness.

October 24: Groups meet to discuss scenario and craft strategy paper

Week 9 (October 29, 31, November 1)
October 29, October 31: Federalism and the Energy-Environmental Union
Readings:

Monica Gattinger, “A National Energy Strategy for Canada: Golden Age or Golden Cage of Energy Federalism?” In Loleen Berdahl, André Juneau and Carolyn Hughes Tuohy

Learning Outcomes:
Apply Gattinger and Wellstead's articles to understand recent intergovernmental disputes over carbon taxes and pipelines.
Explain the sources of intergovernmental conflict and consensus in these policy areas.
Evaluate the possibility of developing robust public policies in these areas.

November 1: Start of Simulation: Opening Speeches
Notes: Strategy Paper Due November 1

Week 10 (November 5, 7, 8)
November 5, 7: Simulation: Meeting of Policy Committees

November 8: Simulation: Delivery of the Joint Communiqué

Learning Outcomes:
Describe the factors that shape provincial strategies in intergovernmental negotiations.
Explain how constitutional and institutional factors create bargaining dynamics that affect the development intergovernmental consensuses and agreements.

Week 11 (November 12, 14, 15)
November 12, 15: Federalism and Plurinationalism: Minority Nations
Readings:

November 14
In-class film: Referendum Take Two.

Describe and compare the strategies used by the central state to recognize or contain the claims of national minorities.
Evaluate whether recognition necessarily leads to secession. Analyze the normative implications of particular forms of accommodation for freedom and democracy in plurinational societies.

Week 12 (November 19, 21, 22)

November 19, 22: Federalism and Plurinationalism: Indigenous Peoples

Readings:

Notes: Reflection paper due November 22.

Learning Outcomes:
Describe the various proposals for integrating Indigenous peoples into the institutions and practices of Canadian federalism.
Describe how processes of decolonization interact with the institutions of Canadian federalism.
Compare the idea of “treaty federalism” or nation-to-nation relationships with their implementation to date.

Week 13 (November 26, 28, 29)

November 26, 29: Federalism and Plurinationalism: Non-territorial identities

Readings:

Learning Outcomes:
Compare the arguments for the advantageous and disadvantageous features of federalism for non-territorial interest groups and social movements. Analyze whether federalism helps or hinders welfare state development. Explain whether the mononational or plurinational character of the federation matters in this regard.

Week 14 (December 3, 5)

December 3, 5: Course conclusions and review

Readings:

Course Policies

Submission of Assignments

Papers are to be submitted to the appropriate submissions folder on the course’s Avenue to Learn page by noon on the due date.

Grades

Grades will be based on the McMaster University grading scale:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>MARK</th>
<th>GRADE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>90-100</td>
<td>A+</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>85-90</td>
<td>A</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>80-84</td>
<td>A-</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>77-79</td>
<td>B+</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>73-76</td>
<td>B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>70-72</td>
<td>B-</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>67-69</td>
<td>C+</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>63-66</td>
<td>C</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>60-62</td>
<td>C-</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>57-59</td>
<td>D+</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>53-56</td>
<td>D</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50-52</td>
<td>D-</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>0-49</td>
<td>F</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Late Assignments

Four days grace will be given for most late papers, in order to accommodate the common reasons for late submission, including those giving rise to the use of the MSAF. After four days, the assignments will be assessed a penalty of 3 percentage points per day, including each day of a weekend. The exception is the Provincial Strategy Paper, which must be submitted on time. If there are reasons why it is incomplete (for instance, someone fell ill at the last minute), this needs to be explained in a covering note making clear what material is missing as a result.

Absences, Missed Work, Illness
Students are expected to attend class and to complete all class readings. University policies around absences due to illness will be respected. Students should speak with an advisor in their faculty office (e.g. the Faculty of Social Sciences office for students enrolled in Political Science) if they are dealing with complicated health, mental health or life situations that might affect their ability to meet the normal course deadlines.

Avenue to Learn
In this course we will be using Avenue to Learn. Students should be aware that, when they access the electronic components of this course, private information such as first and last names, user names for the McMaster e-mail accounts, and program affiliation may become apparent to all other students in the same course. The available information is dependent on the technology used. Continuation in this course will be deemed consent to this disclosure. If you have any questions or concerns about such disclosure please discuss this with the course instructor.

Turnitin.com
In this course we will be using a web-based service (Turnitin.com) to reveal plagiarism. Students will be expected to submit their work electronically to Turnitin.com and in hard copy so that it can be checked for academic dishonesty. Students who do not wish to submit their work to Turnitin.com must still submit a copy to the instructor. No penalty will be assigned to a student who does not submit work to Turnitin.com. All submitted work is subject to normal verification that standards of academic integrity have been upheld (e.g., on-line search, etc.). To see the Turnitin.com Policy, please go to www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity.

University Policies

Academic Integrity Statement
You are expected to exhibit honesty and use ethical behavior in all aspects of the learning process. Academic credentials you earn are rooted in principles of honesty and academic integrity.

Academic dishonesty is to knowingly act or fail to act in a way that results or could result in unearned academic credit or advantage. This behavior can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: “Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty”), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university.
It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty. For information on the various types of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, located at www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity.

The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:

1. Plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one’s own or for which credit has been obtained.
2. Improper collaboration in group work.
3. Copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

Academic Accommodation of Students with Disabilities

Students who require academic accommodation must contact Student Accessibility Services (SAS) to make arrangements with a Program Coordinator. Academic accommodations must be arranged for each term of study. Student Accessibility Services can be contacted by phone 905-525-9140 ext. 28652 or e-mail sas@mcmaster.ca. For further information, consult McMaster University’s Policy for Academic Accommodation of Students with Disabilities.

Faculty of Social Sciences E-mail Communication Policy

Effective September 1, 2010, it is the policy of the Faculty of Social Sciences that all e-mail communication sent from students to instructors (including TAs), and from students to staff, must originate from the student’s own McMaster University e-mail account. This policy protects confidentiality and confirms the identity of the student. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that communication is sent to the university from a McMaster account. If an instructor becomes aware that a communication has come from an alternate address, the instructor may not reply at his or her discretion.

Course Modification

The instructor and university reserve the right to modify elements of the course during the term. The university may change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances. If either type of modification becomes necessary, reasonable notice and communication with the students will be given with explanation and the opportunity to comment on changes. It is the responsibility of the student to check his/her McMaster email and course websites weekly during the term and to note any changes.